Radioline becomes the first European online radio service with 60,000 radio-stations and podcasts

Barcelona (Spain), February 24th 2016 – From the Mobile World Congress 2016 in Barcelona, the French startup Radioline has just announced to become the European leading radio aggregator. Now, more than 60,000 international radio stations and podcasts are available worldwide. This great achievement follows the deal signed with Spreaker in October 2015.

On-demand listening is growing at a very fast pace. In the US, the most developed market, nearly 10% of Americans listen to an average of 6 podcasts per week, a substantial increase over 2014.

By integrating the entire content of Spreaker - one of the most popular platforms in the US - Radioline expands its offer with 27,000 new podcasts. This content is mainly composed of news reports, talk shows, political and technological topics, mostly in English and Spanish.

Radioline, as a radio distribution and tech partner, has developed a range of mobile, web and TV solutions already integrated by its partners like CANAL+, VOO, Xiaomi, TCL Alcatel One Touch and Parrot. Those solutions offer the most comprehensive catalogue of radio stations and podcasts in Europe.

The 60,000 radio stations and podcasts are also accessible from the different Radioline applications available on mobile, tablet, watch, TV, in car and on the web (www.radioline.co).
